In recent times it has been common that people have been asked for proof of affordability and rather than provide such documents have looked elsewhere to bet.

Many people use payment providers such as Skrill (formerly Moneybookers) for depositing into, and withdrawing from online bookmakers, as these can be faster, more convenient than bank or credit cards.

Easy money: Here's your chance to earn P55,000 to watch TikTok videos for 10 hours

Ubiquitous, an influencer marketing company, is offering over P5,000 per hour to three people who will watch videos on the popular social media platform for 10 hours.

According to its official website, Ubiquitous is on the hunt for TikTok users who are at least 18 years old and are familiar with not just social media trends, but also its patterns. "The chosen candidates will help us to discover emerging trends by filling out a simple document to note the recurring trends they spot," the agency explained.

Participants would also need to talk about their experience online and tag the company in their posts.
