The truth about AliExpress clothing is that first, and as you probably already know:

now:

If you have ever wondered that:

Another quick way to differentiate fake from real AliExpress clothing reviews is to use the 10 to 1 rule. The rule is simple:

As you shop for clothes on AliExpress, there will be instances where it's impossible to differentiate real from fake reviews. In such instances, you can do a Google reverse image search.

Thus, it is always better to go beyond reviews and check the AliExpress seller's rating. Usually, the best AliExpress sellers with genuine positive reviews on their clothes/merchandise tend to have positive communication, shipping speed, and "item as described" ratings.

If a seller has a good rating for "item as described," it's highly probable that most of the positive ratings about the "item being as described" are real.

If a clothing product has many positive reviews and has "sold" many items, it probably means most of those reviews are genuine.

Some AliExpress clothing reviews are fake, but most are genuine, especially if the positive reviews match the seller's feedback and products ordered the "orders" tab.
