While Lagerfeld kept most of its original details in homage to Coco and the house's heritage, he did make some modernizing changes.

In 1984, he replaced the Mademoiselle lock with the 'CC' logo turn lock, branding the Flap Bag and making it more recognizably Chanel.

To keep it as true to the original as possible, he brought back the Mademoiselle lock and offered it in just three traditional colorways.

Upon its initial release, the Chanel Flap Bag cost approximately $220.

At The Vintage Bar, we do our best to keep every style in stock, but make sure to check out our pre-owned Specialty Flap Bags.

From Chanel's off-season runways (like Cruise and Métiers d'Art), they are especially rare and limited edition, making them the ultimate vintage find.
