This version of the casino favorite features much of the same action as the original, with players hitting, standing, doubling down and splitting.

Assuming you are familiar with that game, we will focus mostly on the changes that are found in this popular variant.

Some rules that are sometimes optionally used in the main game are standard here: late surrender is always allowed, you can re-split your aces, and doubling after splitting is permitted.

Players have the option of doubling down after any number of cards, and can still surrender after they double (in this case losing a full bet by doing so).

Seven or More Cards: 3-1

Strategy for this game can be very complex.
