Even before the campaigns got started in earnest, Californians weren't that enthusiastic about sports betting.

Case in point: This week Californians voted down an initiative adding regulations for dialysis clinics for a third time since 2018.

Or legislators could pass a constitutional amendment that would then be put on the ballot for voters to decide.

In 2019 and 2020, state legislators considered amendments to legalize sports betting, but complex negotiations between different gambling interests weren't resolved in time and the effort died.

Victor Rocha, conference chairperson for the national Indian Gaming Association.

"If we go through this again in two years, it's gonna be the same result," said Pascrell, the gambling lobbyist.

Supreme Court decision that allowed states to legalize sports betting, 31 states plus Washington, D.C.

In most of the states that have legalized sports betting, it happened in state legislatures, said a gaming association spokesperson.
